Duvall wants to serve as a voice for Glencoe's Hispanic community

Child of migrant workers will help influence city's future

By John Mueller

Editor

She came to Glencoe as the child of migrant workers, people trying to provide for their families and create a positive future for themselves and their children. Today, Luz Duvall is playing a role helping to plan her adopted home's future for decades to come.

Duvall was appointed last month as a member of the steering committee leading the creation of Glencoe's comprehensive plan. She joined the committee proudly stating she wanted to be a voice for the Latino/Hispanic community in Glencoe, a collection of adults and children who make up as much as 20 percent of the city's residents, according to the city of Glencoe.

Kerry Ward, who serves on the steering committee, recommended Duvall for the committee. Ward works at McLeod Co. Public Health. Duvall works for Sibley County in Health and Human Services. Together with Meeker County, they serve on Meeker-McLeod-Sibley Community Health Service. Ward described Duvall as a trusted member of the Latino/Hispanic Community. Duvall has performed important work with the community during the COVID-19 vaccination process, Ward said.

"Because of her integral work during our COVID-19 testing event that was held in Glencoe, I could see her being a great asset to our steering committee to give us perspective related to the Latino/Hispanic culture/community as well as being the liaison between the committee and that particular population," Ward said.

Language is one of the barriers between the Hispanic/Latino and Caucasian communities, but not the only issue. The two communities are slowly addressing issues of trust and racial equality. Duvall said a growing mutual understanding of the two communities would improve trust between the two populations. She wants to help advocate for the Lat-moved to a hybrid model, attending in-person classes two days a week.

Educators go into teaching to help children and the increasing failure rate of students weighs heavy on them, Foss told the board.

Take care of yourself

Mental health and self-care have become a constant topic in weekly staff meetings. Foss added some staff could be nearing the "breaking point."

As the school looks to move back into an all in-person model, Foss feels the model will reduce the anxiety and burden on some staff and increase it for others.

Butler echoed Foss' concerns. While elementary students are back in school every day, teachers aren't faced as much with the additional distance learning and hybrid models.

City council looking at pavement protection plan

Idea is to spend some now and put off major street work

By John Mueller

Editor

With limited funding available now while waiting for existing bonds to be paid off, the Glencoe City Council is weighing a proposal to perform some relatively short-term maintenance to selected city streets to avoid major reconstruction projects down the road.

During a workshop Monday afternoon, the council heard a proposal for a street pavement protection plan. It calls for pavement reclamation and overlays of varying thicknesses along East 11th and 12th streets between North Hennepin and North Union avenues, a section of East 14th Street east of North Union Avenue, North Greeley Avenue, a section of East 16th Street, the Ives Avenue/North Judd horseshoe, plus portions of North Knight and North Louden avenues.

Engineers from the city's contract engineering firm, Short Elliott Hendrickson (SEH) will be back to the council in the weeks to come with a report on options and potential costs for councilors to consider.

Street inspection

The recommendation came after SEH staff drove every street in Glencoe. It rated the condition of city streets to create a map showing the street condition of the entire town.

SEH says Glencoe has invested about $25 million in street improvements on 97 blocks since 2014. The improvements include underground infrastructure as well as the street surface, according to SEH. The street surface inventory indicates about 90 blocks of streets are in poor

In a pandemic, Girl Scouts' cookie sales back with added strategies

By Brianna Taggart
Staff Writer

Thin Mints®, Caramel deLites®, Trefoils® and a variety of other Girl Scout cookies are about to make their annual comeback.

And while Girl Scouts will be returning with tried and true selling strategies, they have a few others up their sleeves because of the COVID-19 pandemic. Preorders started Feb. 6 and the girls will start deliveries and selling cookies in person from Feb. 20 to April 2.

"We're trying different things," Gerri Fitzloff, the service unit cookie manager in McLeod County, said.

Proven techniques

Brooklyn Fitzloff, Lucy Geers and Adalyn Mayer were a few of McLeod County's top Girl Scout cookie sellers, and they're not backing down now.

People can expect similar strategies to past years with the girls going door-to-door, asking people they know and selling cookies at local stores like Coborn's in Glencoe and Walmart in Hutchinson.

Fitzloff, 10, from Lester Prairie, is a registered individual Girl Scout who sold over 1,000 boxes of cookies last year.

Nine-year-old Geers, from Hutchinson, is going into her third year as a junior in Troop 30856 and sold about 850 boxes last year.

Mayer, 8, from Hector, has been in Girl Scouts for two and-a-half years and sold about 1,100 boxes last year.

Towards the end of their selling period last spring, all three of them reached out to people who had bought cookies from them earlier in the year to help them reach their goals of selling over 1,000 boxes. The average Girl Scout sells about 220 boxes of cookies per year, according to Gerri Fitzloff.

"It was a lot of booths and a lot of dedication," she said. "They worked really hard and did a good job."

New strategies

The girls are ready to add new strategies in the wake of coronavirus.

Area couple welcomes a son

Amber and Jesse Selchow of Hutchinson recently celebrated the arrival of their son at Glencoe Regional Health.

Charlie Reed Selchow was born Jan. 18. He arrived weighing 8 pounds, 2 ounces and was 19 1/4 inches long.

Red Cross blood drives

The American Red Cross is planning blood drives in the area to meet a shortage of Type-O and other types of blood.

The Bloodmobile will be in Silver Lake Thursday, Feb. 11, 1 to 7 p.m., at the American Legion, 241 Main St. W. Appointments are required. Completion of a rapid pass online health questionnaire will help speed up the process. Follow the instructions at redcrossblood.org/rapidpass or use the blood donor app.

If you have not been called and would like to donate in Silver Lake, call Rhonda at Sumter Insurance 320-327-2887 or at 320-327-0144 after 5 p.m.

Good Shepherd Lutheran and Lighthouse Church in Plato will host the Bloodmobile Thursday, Feb. 25. The Red Cross will be at Good Shepherd from 1 to 7 p.m. and at Lighthouse Church in Plato from noon to 6 p.m. Lighthouse Church is at 10478 Bell Ave. Good Shepherd Lutheran is at 1407 Cedar Ave. N.

Donors with all blood types – types O positive and negative and other types – are urged to make an appointment to give blood or platelets now using the Red Cross Blood Donor App, visiting RedCrossBlood.org or calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767).

The Red Cross is testing blood, platelet and plasma donations for COVID-19 antibodies. The test may indicate if the donor's immune system has produced antibodies to this coronavirus, regardless of whether an individual developed COVID-19 symptoms. Red Cross antibody tests will be helpful to identify individuals who have COVID-19 antibodies and may now help current coronavirus patients in need of convalescent plasma transfusions.

COVID-19 antibody test results will be available within one to two weeks in the Red Cross Blood Donor App or donor portal at RedCrossBlood.org. A positive antibody test result does not confirm infection or immunity. The Red Cross is not testing donors to diagnose illness, referred to as a diagnostic test. To protect the health and safety of Red Cross staff and donors, it is important that individuals who do not feel well or believe they may be ill with COVID-19 postpone donation.

Emergency extrication

Brownton firefighters, sheriff's deputies and an ambulance crew worked feverishly Thursday just after 4:15 p.m. to extricate Yvonne Janice Porter of Buffalo Lake from a SUV after a crash at the intersection of Highway 212 and Major Avenue in Sumter Avenue. The crash occurred, according to the Minnesota State Patrol, when Porter was westbound on Highway 212 and attempted to go around traffic stopped on the highway via the highway's shoulder. Porter, 82, lost control and rolled over into ditch. She suffered non-life-threatening injuries and was transported to Glencoe Regional Health, according to the state patrol.

McLeod County casting its gaze on future solar garden CUPs

County board has workshop set for Feb. 16

By John Mueller

Editor

With three applications before the Minnesota Court of Appeals and two requests for conditional-use permits for solar gardens on the planning commission's agenda later this month, McLeod County is taking a look at how it is treating solar gardens.

The county board has scheduled a workshop on how it wants to handle the anticipated increase in requests for CUPs for solar gardens primarily in Xcel Energy's service area in the northeast portion of the county. The workshop is slated for Feb. 16 following the county board meeting, said Commisssioner Doug Krueger of Glencoe, the county board's chairperson. The increase is expected in part because of a legislative requirement for a percent of Minnesota's power to come from renewable sources, like solar power, and land potentially available to host solar gardens in the Xcel Energy's service area. The northeast portion of McLeod County is in Xcel's service area.

Krueger is interested in discussing the topic. He wants to find a balance between the right to use land and preserving prime farmland. Krueger would like it if Xcel or any of the companies building the lines could collaborate on making less-than-prime farmland more accessible.

Krueger likes the idea of looking at the county's ordinance. He said the review is likely overdue.

"We want to be consistent. Consistency is important," Krueger said. "I don't think our ordinance should pick winners and losers."

Commissioner Nathan Schmalz of rural Lester Prairie could not be reached for comment on the issue.

Daniel Rogers, a partner with Nokomis Energy, is interested in the county's planned discussions. Rogers' company is one of the firms appealing a county board denial of a CUP request. Generally speaking, Rogers said the company's appeal is because the county approved some applications and then denied others without changing its ordinance.

Another factor in McLeod County's desire to review and discuss its ordinance is a growing number of applications in Wright County's moratorium on solar gardens. Wright County OK'd a moratorium of up to one year last month. Part of the rationale for that moratorium was the cost of eventually cleaning up the sites and recycling the materials in the solar panels.

At a recent McLeod County Planning Commission meeting discussion included anecdotal information on the challenges of recycling solar panels and the importance of a bond or letter of credit for the cleanup after the lease is completed.

Leases can run up to 30 years paying landowners, depending on the size and location of the land, $600 to $2,000 per acre, Rogers said.

to very poor condition and another 165 blocks in fair condition.

When looking at the condition of street and underground infrastructure, as much as $45 million in 2019 dollars would be needed to reconstruct the remaining streets and utilities in the city, said John Rodeberg, Glencoe's city engineer with SEH.

With current funding, we cannot address all the city's street infrastructure needs in next 20 years.

Many of these streets will not last another five to 10 years, according to SEH's presentation to the city council.

Costs

The city is budgeting about $700,000 to spend on street pavement maintenance in 2021, $800,000 in 2022 and $900,000 in 2023 until bonds for major projects issued beginning in 2014 come off the books in 2024 and 2025. That overlay and reclamation work would extend pavement in the city by up to 20 years, according to SEH's presentation. The firm estimates a full pavement protection program between 2024 and 2040 would cost, without inflation, about $1 million annually.

The city needs to put about $100,000 away annually for its share of local funding on the East 10th Street project that will primarily be funded by federal dollars.

Options

Options for the street work range from a patch and seal coat, work estimated to have a two to four-year lifespan, a one-inch overlay for up to $20,000 per block or an edge mill and two-inch overlay at about $40,000 per block. Another option is reclaiming the surface with a four-inch overlay at about $85,000 per block. The truly high-end option is total reconstruction at about $320,000 per block.

The one-inch overlay is expected to last for three to five years. The edge mill and two-inch overlay is expected to come with a five to 10-year lifespan, according to SEH. The reclamation and four-inch overlay offers a 15- to 20-year lifespan.

SEH noted the four-inch overlay offers less risk of short-term cracking of pavement and may be the best option when underground utilities are in good shape.

Another important issue to be factored into the council's option is the city's ongoing infiltration and inflow (I & I) issue where clear water is leaking into the sanitary sewer lines and treated at the city's wastewater treatment plant. Glencoe has been working on I & I since the early-2000s, said Gary Schreifels, the city's director of public works for water/waste water. The city has been addressing lines with I & I problems on 11th and 12th streets, the Ives and Judd horseshoe and North Greeley avenues during the past year.

Librarians encourage readers to pick up a 'blind date' during February

By Brianna Taggart
Staff Writer

Valentine's Day might be right around the corner, but people can pick up a blind date with a book at the library throughout February.

"Hey, want to get a date at the library?" said Gabby Fountain, librarian for Glencoe Public Library with a chuckle.

Stacks of books wrapped as presents lay in wait to be picked up by people for the Glencoe Public Library's "Blind Date with a Book" promotion. It's part of the library's "Love your Library Month," and allows people to choose a free, unknown book every time they go to the library, similar to a blind date.

The program is geared for adults with a mix of genres like classics, romance and mystery.

"Go on a date and see what you find," Fountain said.

The library had a surplus of books when it moved into the new space at Glencoe City Center and all these books were either donated or duplicate of ones already on the shelves.

The perfect match

Inspired by another library, Gabby and head librarian Jackee Fountain thought this would be a fun way to give extra books away and allow readers to discover new ones. This is about their fourth year doing this.

"I think it goes back to the saying of you're not supposed to judge a book by its cover, but when somebody comes in, that's literally what they do all the time," Gabby Fountain said. "That's kind of the fun thing with this. They don't know what they're getting."

Gabby Fountain had towers of books around her and as she spent hours wrapping them for this, even she forgot which books are which.

Jackee Fountain especially likes that last part, because it encourages people to try a story they wouldn't have thought about before.

"I think it challenges people to read outside their comfort zone," Jackee Fountain said. "We've seen some very positive things, and it's just a fun thing to do."

A group of sisters even traded books with each other one year so they could discuss them together, creating their own book club out of the program.

People have found new genres and authors they like, according to Jackee Fountain.

"It's a nice program, especially this year when I think people appreciate something different and they don't have to go out and buy a book," she said.

'Sometimes it's a dud'

Things don't always work out for people when they go on a blind date though.

Sometimes people have to endure another date until they find "the one."

"Sometimes it's a winner," Gabby Fountain said. "Sometimes it's a dud. It's kind of like life I guess."

People have returned the book and tried a different one when this has happened in the past. It's always a mystery since the wrapped book doesn't include any hint of what it could be.

There's a second chance at love though since people can choose a "blind date" each time they go to the library throughout February, with the chance of getting at least four books.

What they do with it is in their hands when they leave the library. Some have decided to keep it, others decide to share it with friends and family and some people return it.

Gabby Fountain just has one rule though.

"No opening dates at the library," Gabby Fountain said.

no/Hispanic community and find ways to improve collaboration and comfort.

'Cultural humility'

A part of growing together involves "cultural humility," a process of getting to know each other and learning about the values of others through listening and learning about the culture, she said. She said the GSL school staff has been especially welcoming and helpful to young Latino children.

Duvall wants to help build connections within the community to hear residents' voices and concerns. That learning "goes both ways," Duvall said.

"She will be great in guiding our group in regards to the needs of the Hispanic community, what this pocket of residents would like to see happen in Glencoe, and help build that feeling of inclusive and belonging," Ward said.

Duvall wants to see Glencoe grow and expand. She wants to see more housing intended to serve the working-class Latino/Hispanic community. She has seen a generation of Latino/Hispanics come to the area as migrant workers and eventually begin to put down roots.

"I could see her being a great asset to our steering committee to give us perspective related to the Latino/Hispanic culture and community and well as being the liaison between the committee and that particular population," Ward said.

Duvall moved to Glencoe from Hutchinson in 1998. She is a former migrant worker whose family came to Glenco to work at Seneca. Duvall, 49, was born in Brownsville, Texas and lived in Mexico through much of her teenage years. She has two adult children.

Part of Glencoe

She knows the Latino/Hispanic community is mobile and willing to work to make money to support their families. Duvall believes the Hispanic/Latino community impacts the local economy in a positive way.

"They shop locally, pay rent, attend events and go to restaurants," she said.

Transportation is an important issue for the Latino/Hispanic community. For example, much of the shopping opportunities are on the east side of Glencoe, while much of the community lives on the west side of the city. She'd like to see more housing for Latino/Hispanic families.

"I've heard as an outreach worker what the (Latino/Hispanic) community needs," Duvall said.

"We as a committee need to remember regardless of what culture or ethnicity our residents relate with, we need to learn how to communicate with our residents, meet them at their comfort level, reach them where they are at," Ward said. "Not all people are technologically savvy. Some people need in-person conversation. We need to be mindful of these things so we can truly get at what the needs, wants or interests are for all our residents. Ultimately, we want people to be drawn to Glencoe, to live, learn, work, play and eventually stay and make their homes here."

He hasn't seen the anxiety of the ongoing pandemic interfere with the work being done with the children, but knows emotions are being internalized.

As with the junior and senior high, mental health and personal well-being are at the forefront of staff meetings weekly.

Additional help

Foss also reported the introduction of the "Panthers After Dark" program, offered two evenings a week, to allow students to work on catching up on missing school work and obtain additional help if needed. In the first weeks, Foss reported 19 students had attended, more than expected, and the numbers are expected to grow as he reaches out to parents to personally invite their students to participate.

Hoping to be back

Superintendent Chris Sonju reported the number of COVID-19 cases continues to decline within McLeod County. The district continues to work closely with McLeod County Public Health as it looks at a plan to move into the all in-person learning model. Sonju hopes to announce the March learning models in the next week.

He reported the district is also looking at possibilities to hold prom and graduation as well. They continue to look at state guidelines as they move forward with the plans, with the hopes to hold these opportunities for students.

Sonju also reported a limited number of vaccines have been made available to staff and some staff members have taken advantage of the opportunity. The district will continue to work with public health to work toward vaccinating all those who wish to be vaccinated.

In other business, the board:

- Was unable to elect a vice-chairperson for the second meeting in a row. Board members were split 3-3 with Clark Christianson, Jason Lindemann and Alicia Luckhardt voting in favor of Luckhardt. Jon Lemke, Donna VonBerge and Jamie Alsleben voting in favor of Alsleben.

Weather Corner

By Jake Yurek

Everyone who was bragging about how our winter was so wimpy and warm needs to take a minute to apologize to the rest of us that knew something bad was coming.

We took a ride down the arctic express late last week and have yet come up for air. And to make matters worse, we've had wind just about the entire time, which doesn't always happen when you get cold snaps. Our cold streak will continue all the way through the weekend, with perhaps a few days towards the end of the week where we won't see any days above zero for a high.

We had a couple of days over the weekend and to start the week, so the good news is, I guess, we're used to it. Three-plus-day stretches where the temperature doesn't make it to zero are relatively rare. Since the late 1800s it's only happened something like 27 times, so if we get there it'll be a nice feather in our cap. On the flip side, as bad as this stretch has been, and is going to be, we're not getting close to any daily cold low records.

This is part being due to winds not allowing things to cool off as much as they could if it were calm. Either way, it's cold. I want it to end and I'm not seeing an end until we slowly creep back up next week. There's a storm forecast to kick this cold blob of air out early next week. My only worry is weather forecast models have a tough time in these setups and predict cold streaks to end too quickly.

Let's hope they're right about this one. The only chance of snow this week will be Friday into Saturday, but only snow showers at best (probably nothing). The bigger storm will head to our south and east.

Have a great week everyone. Stay warm.

Last week's question: What is an Alberta clipper?

Answer to last week's question: This is a fast-moving winter system that comes quickly out of Canada, through the Dakotas and moves out as quickly as it came in. They typically don't bring large snowfall totals, but anywhere from 1-6 inches of snow can be common. They're called this due to the location they come from, Alberta. It was probably catchier than Saskatchewan Clipper, and way easier to spell.

Our view: We need our city council to get along

With a group that doesn't always work collaboratively, the first two-thirds of the city council meeting last Monday, Feb. 1, was progressing swimmingly. It was refreshing.

And then progress came to an abrupt halt over a document that should have been approved with little or no discussion. The guidelines for procedures and decorum brought an end to unanimity. The document encouraging council members to work together, treat each other and staff with respect even when they disagree on an issue passed on a 3-2 vote.

Councilors Cory Neid and Allen Robeck opposed the document because, among other reasons, they felt the guidelines should place greater emphasis on how staff treats elected councilors. They believe there are times staff is not respectful to some elected council members.

The document was written in a benign fashion, free of language requiring respectful behavior and threats of draconian consequences. Mayor Ryan Voss has reviewed guidelines from other cities and selected the most non-threatening verbiage available.

A chance to have a say

The city is hosting an online workshop on its proposed comprehensive plan Thursday, Feb. 18.

Glencoe, this is your chance to pay close attention to the process and learn about efforts to prepare the city for the future. If you want to learn about the process and let your voice be heard, this is an opportunity worthy of participation.

Or, you could let somebody else do it, and later, kvetch about it on Facebook.

The committee recently welcomed additions to the steering committee. One of them, Luz Duvall, will represent the Latino/Hispanic community, a group estimated to make up as much as 20 percent of Glencoe's population. We hope she will represent the Latino/Hispanic community well and, perhaps, teach us a thing or two.

'Absolute Proof' should concern every American

To the editor:

For those of you wanting to see proof of election fraud, I invite you to visit MichaelJLindell.com and watch "Absolute Proof." I was surprised to learn, as Lindell states, that all servers tabulating the United States election are located in foreign countries. I was shocked to learn that foreign countries flipped votes from Trump to Biden after citizens cast their ballots, according to "Absolute Proof."

I don't care what political party you support, but no American should be OK with their vote being flipped by a foreign country to decide an election.

For those of you looking for a source of encouragement, I invite you to watch FlashPoint. You can view FlashPoint by going to KCM.org website, clicking on Live Ways to Watch, clicking on Apps & Devices, and choosing YouTube.

Election fraud a sign our national sovereignty is at risk

To the editor:

This editorial is in response to recent articles submitted claiming that there was no election fraud. There was massive voter fraud – depending on your news source. The mainstream media has not let the truth out about the election fraud. Readers would do themselves justice by watching OAN.

OAN is not owned by the left. It reports facts. It reports truth. It doesn't deceive the audience by leaving out information, or blatantly lying to the public as the mainstream media has for the last four years. That's called propaganda. Reason being, the fake news objective for the past four years has been about getting rid of Donald Trump, and the election fraud coverage was no different. OAN had the voter fraud hearings on from each of the swing states for the public to see. Election workers were asked to change dates, poll workers were not allowed to observe, trucks of ballots were brought in after hours, dead people voting, underage people voting, illegals voting, out of state people voting, and people voting more than once. Even with all that, Trump won all the swing states.

This past weekend, Mike Lindell aired a documentary on OAN called, "Absolute Proof." Explained is the fact that the problem wasn't that there wasn't voter fraud, the problem was that the courts did not look at it.

For example, attorneys in Michigan were told by their attorney general that if they represented anything regarding the voter fraud, they'd be disbarred. The most important thing to take away from this documentary was this, that a major cyber attack was committed on our 2020 election. A national security threat. Sixty-five percent of the interference came from China, according to Lindell's documentary.

That should horrify every single reader and citizen. Votes were changed through massive adjudication and changing of voter records. The documentary is detailed by forensic experts that now have all the data, concluding without a doubt, 100 percent proof, that this election was stolen! Data in the documentary reveals how it was stolen, from where, to where, by whom, dates, and times. Nationwide!

I believe the first step is for folks to acknowledge that this did occur and our country has been attacked from both foreign and domestic sources. Understand that their intent is for socialism and communism to take over our country.

We cannot let that happen. We must hold onto our national sovereignty.

Gruenhagen rejects claims he backs conspiracy theories

To the editor:

This is a response to false accusations by Dana Melius's letter to the editor accusing me of promoting conspiracy theories. Let's talk about conspiracies. Perhaps Dana should consider one of the most recent and unjust conspiracies in our nation's history, that being the Russia collusion hoax, which lasted over three years and cost taxpayers $32 million. This was followed by the Ukrainian hoax, both of which were used by Democrats in their failed attempt to remove President Trump from office.

While we're at it, I'd like to remind Dana of his own radical Democratic Party's support of the biggest conspiracy theory and tax scam in U.S. history, the "Global Warming UN climate change hoax."

The book "Why Scientists Disagree about Global Warming," written by three eminently qualified scientists and available through Heartland Institute, exposes the lie that 97 percent of scientists support the man-made global warming theory. They also report the Obama/Biden administration used $64 billion of government funding for scientists to find evidence supporting global warming. If the Green New Deal (based on the conspiracy of global warming) is implemented, it will transfer trillions of U.S. tax dollars to UN foreign dictators and thugs. In addition, the Biden administration supports the fraudulent UN Paris Accord, which will create dramatically higher costs for U.S. businesses and incentivize job creation in foreign countries.

Remember U.S. Rep. Ocasio-Cortez (D-NY) stated at a Women's Unity Rally (Jan. 19, 2019), "the world is going to end in 12 years if we don't address climate change." She bases her comments on the conspiracy of man-made global warming.

Another conspiracy supported by the DFL and Planned Parenthood is that unborn children from the time of conception are not human. Advancements in biology have exposed this as an unscientific lie, yet the Democrat party continues to advance this conspiracy, according to Keith Moore in Essentials of Human Embryology.

Then there is the conspiracy that a biological man can identify as a woman and participate fairly in women's sports and enter women's locker rooms. This will destroy women's sports and the scholarships will go to biological men. Joe Biden recently signed an executive order to require this in our schools.

For Melius to claim that I support Proud Boys or QAnon without any evidence is just a blatant lie. On the other hand, Democrats support BLM who have caused violence and riots.

Now let's consider the presidential election. A new documentary produced by Mike Lindell was just released. It is titled "Absolute Proof." (Find the documentary at www.bitchute.com)

This documentary provides proof positive by computer and cyber security experts that there was foreign election interference through voting machines connected to the internet which switched millions of votes in swing states from President Trump to Biden. This is nothing short of cyber warfare, since over 66 percent of the hacking was done by Communist China, according to Mike Lindell's documentary.

Trying to silence and intimidate 75 million Trump voters who question the irregularities of the election is un-American. Therefore, it is imperative that we investigate and pass laws securing our elections or we may never have another lawful presidential election in the U.S.

A helping hand

Stewart OKs addition to community solar garden

By Brianna Taggart
Staff Writer

An expanded solar garden will be making its way to Stewart later this year.

Jonathan and Kate Maiers entered a 25-year lease with USS Verbena Solar to develop and operate a 1-megawatt community solar garden. It will take up approximately 6.43 acres on their land on Martha Street with a possible five-year lease added to the end. It will be adjacent to a solar garden the city OK'd two years ago.

The standard setback for the fence around the solar garden has been 100 feet from the centerline of Martha Street and 30 feet from the southern parcel boundary, but the city council voted to shorten that.

Stewart councilors approved the conditional-use permit, which shortens the setback to 54.5 feet and 5 feet at their meeting Monday, Feb. 8. Stewart's planning commission reviewed the permit at its meeting Friday, Feb. 5, and recommended approval to the city council.

David Watts, project development manager for USS Verbena Solar, said this shortened setback would make construction easier. Watts hopes to start construction this summer. Nautilus Solar Energy developed the first garden, which was approved by the council September 2019.

The project will interconnect to the existing three-phase distribution line owned by Xcel Energy and provide enough local, clean electricity to power about 200 homes, according to the permit.

Councilor Kevin Klucas was worried about water runoff from the panels affecting tile drainage, but Watts said the solar garden would cause a 23 percent reduction in storm runoff.

"It's actually helping out," Jonathan Maiers said.

Mayor Jason Peirce was worried about damage to Martha Street by large equipment that will be brought in during construction, so Councilor Curt Glaeser offered to add a $10,000 contingency plan to the permit for any damages.

The solar garden is also being used to promote better wildlife habitat, according to Watts.

"The entire project area will be planted with native grasses and pollinator-friendly habitat, which improves soil and water quality, reduces runoff and supports local wildlife," the permit said.

Glaeser made the motion to approve it with the added contingency plan and Councilor Carol Altrichter seconded it. It was approved 5-0.

The council didn't approve guarantees for solar panel clean up at the end of the lease, and Altrichter said that will be up to the Maiers and USS Verbena Solar.

In other business, the council also:

- Agreed to pay McLeod County $577 to take aerial photos of the city in 2022.

- Approved to send Adam Stegeman and Jayce Piehl to a six-week EMR class through Ridgewater College at Buffalo Lake Fire Hall for $495 each.

- Welcomed Jessica Cox as the new EMR co-captain, joining Carol Nelson in the role.

Hard work, challenging times helped make McLeod County from ground up

By Brian Haines
McLeod County Historical Society

There's nothing like a day of hard work – tiring, stressing, and long – yet it possesses a certain character-building aspect that cannot be attained elsewhere.

Now, I know at least a few of you are reading this and rolling your eyes, wondering how a desk jockey historian such as I would know anything about hard work, but I can assure you, that my decade in the construction trade taught me some valuable lessons of physical labor. Though today's manual labors toil the body and build the soul, it's likely to pale in comparison to our historic counterparts that settled this land.

Joachim Daak settled in Lynn Township in 1871. Though the ruggedness of the region's wilderness era was beginning to erode, the land still possessed a wild aspect about it that made living on it an arduous task not all were cut out for. For a man like Daak, however, the toils of the settler were less an obstacle and more a simple part of life.

Joachim Daak was born in Germany in 1842. He came to the United States at 19. In Barrington, Ill., an old family friend boarded the young man. For a time, Daak made his living by working as a farmhand on the various neighboring farmsteads in the region until 1864 when he joined the ranks of the Union Army. Little is known of his exploits in the war. At war's end, Joachim returned to Barrington where he married Caroline Wollert. They farmed until the fall of 1871 when they left, with two children in tow, for the sturdy backcountry of Minnesota.

A bit less civilized

The North Country in 1871 was a bit different than Illinois where there was a bit more sense of civilization. In Minnesota, not only could the weather be unforgiving, but roads were still non-existent in many places, and a person wishing to make a living on a farm had to do so with knowledge of how to live as a pioneer.

As many were apt to do in those days, the Daak family came to Minnesota in the fall and boarded with another family. Joachim found an 80-acre piece of land and began working immediately. He secured a team of oxen and set out to a patch of woods near Hutchinson and began cutting timbers. With nothing more than a broad axe, he felled mature trees, smoothed them, and hauled them the nine miles, over a roadless landscape, back to his land. When winter ended, and spring sprung, he began building a one room dwelling. It was a simple cabin made of the logs he cut through the winter, and patched together with sticks and mortar made from clay and straw. The roof was thatched and made of cane which he cut by hand. He even made a sizeable loft above the cabin and used the same mortar to make an upstairs floor. The furnishing, as well, was handmade by Daak. Only two shacks existed in the nine-mile span between the Daak cabin and Hutchinson – a desolate land to say the least.

Once, Joachim was caught in a three-day blizzard. He left for Hutchinson on a mild and beautiful winter morning. On his return trip, however, a whopping blizzard descended and drove him back into Hutchinson where he was marooned for the duration. He worried greatly about his family back in the cabin, and they him, fearing he'd perished. One can imagine the relief they felt once they re-united.

As the years wore on, and the land became more settled, more hardships came. In 1904, Caroline Daak passed away. For the next 20 years, Joachim lived the life of a widowed man until his death in 1924.

There is a great deal of satisfaction and comfort to be obtained from a supply of ice on the farm. When the thermometer registers 80 to 90 degrees in the shade, we will get a great deal of satisfaction out of the knowledge that we had the foresight to store away 50 to 75 tons of ice during the winter season. The ice harvest costs only the labor and hauling into the ice house. Think of the comfort. Ice cold milk and cream, all for perhaps a week's work during the winter months when we haven't much of anything else to do anyway. Furthermore, with a supply of ice, it is possible to keep the cream and milk sweet so that a much better quality of product can be sent to our creameries. The farmers of McLeod County would have little difficulty in securing a supply of ice because of the numerous lakes and ponds to be had throughout.

With a badly crippled team, the local high school basketball team lost a hotly contested game of the Olivia Seconds on the local floor last Friday evening, score 27 to 25. With Hanson and Triplett sick all week there was no hope of putting a very strong lineup on the floor.

Well, today is Valentine's Day and with it comes the annual custom of sending those many different types of greeting cards. We can remember the many different hand-made cards that we turned out. But, it always seemed that type of a card wasn't good enough for that certain person and we would approach mom or dad for a nickel or dime for a store bought one. Those were the days that we can't forget so soon.

An accident occurred at the Tribune office about ten o'clock Tuesday morning, when Mrs. Kermitt Hubin had the misfortune of having her hand crushed by the job press. The mishap oc-

Each dog receives a serial number, "dog tags," a complete physical examination by one of the veterinarians, inoculations against canine diseases.

There has been proposed an act for the Legislature, that if passed, a student to have both classroom and behind the wheel driver training before he could secure a driver's license, prior to reaching age 18. That is fine, but then comes the sticker (the portion we disagree with). It is estimated that this program would cost the state about 1 1/2 to 2 million dollars the very first year. We are in favor of a driver training program, but why not do as Silver Lake does....provide it for all students at the age of 15.

Military funeral services were held at one thirty Wednesday afternoon at the Presbyterian Church in Silver Lake for Henry Barto, 64. Mr. Barto passed away at the Hutchinson hospital, after a lengthy illness, on Monday, February 6th. Interment was at the Bohemian National Cemetery.

Members of the Sno Pro Club were busy clearing the areas of Silver Lake for the radar snowmobile races scheduled for this week. Specialized equipment which is used by the club for trail forming made the job much easier. The Crow River Sno Pro's will hold their annual races and radar run Feb. 10.

It is mid-winter in Minnesota and state, county, and city roads officials are concerned about the high snow banks along roadways, at intersections and road turnoffs. It is a dangerous situation because of sight obstruction to motorists and increased drifting on rural roads. Snowplow operators will be working diligently throughout the winter.

Already wrestling with budget problems because of proposed state funding cuts, the McLeod County Board heard more bad news Tuesday. The board had learned last week that the state would cut $126,000 in state aid to its general fund, the county would lose $39,000 in state aid highway funds.

After meeting for two hours Monday night, members of the Brownton and Glencoe school boards found they had only scratched the surface of probing possible cooperation between the two districts. Most of the discussion centered on the possible benefits of pairing for each district.

The entertainment ranged from a ballet dance to a rap dance of M.C. Hammer's "You Can't Touch This." The event was the Glencoe Middle School Student Council's annual talent show. Nathan Jaster raps to "Ice, Ice, Baby," and Dawn Tupa shows her gracefulness in a ballet dance.

Kathy Olson and Tom Umhoefer are walking a tightrope, performing a delicate balancing act in dealing with the many demands on the Panther Field House. Olson, activities director for the Glencoe-Silver Lake School District, and Umhoefer, director of the GSL Community Education program and the field house, are trying hard to keep everyone happy.

"The bottom line: it is a scheduling nightmare," Olson said. But memberships alone are not making ends meet. The school district picked up the shortfall in revenues of about $53,000 for the first year of operation.

Glencoe-Silver Lake wrestlers won weight at 130 pounds, 135 and 140 in succession, and Mitchell Hartwig, Colt Trebesch and Stephen Delwiche produced 17 points in doing so. GSL gymnasts celebrate win at first home meet, jumps into top spots

By Brianna Taggart

Staff Writer

The Panthers' gymnastics team set its sights on routine execution, amplitude and clean form at its first home meet of the season Friday, Feb. 5, and it paid off.

Glencoe-Silver Lake vaulted into first place against Howard Lake-Waverly-Winsted 124.900 to 115.65 with top places across every event and a record number of beam sticks.

"It felt great to win a meet," Head Coach Kim Hahn said. "It was fun to have our first home meet. It seems the adrenaline is always there and they have fun, high energy."

All-around gymnasts

GSL senior Marissa Greeley won all-around gymnast at the meet with a score of 33.125. She earned first place on every event besides beam, which fellow GSL student Emma Peirce came first on instead.

Autumn Kaczmarek came second in the all-around category with a score of 31.700, and Emma Peirce came third with a score of 30.275.

Everyone on the team worked on clean routines as each GSL varsity gymnast made it into one of the top five places of each event at least once that night.

"Each meet is totally different for each girl," Hahn said. "Of course we like to see everyone be on point at the same meet, or all meets, but we know that isn't reality. But it sure seemed very close to that outcome at Friday's meet."

Vault

Greeley came first on the vault with 9.075 points. Kaczmarek came in second place with 8.725 points, and Peirce came in third place with 8.700 points.

Bars

Greeley came first on bars with 7.275 points. Makayla Wigern came in second place with 6.725 points, and Kaczmarek tied with HLWW for fourth place with 6.600 points.

Beam

The Panthers had solid footing on the beam as Peirce tied with HLWW for first place with 8.150 points. Greeley came in third place with 7.650 points, Kaczmarek came in fourth place with 7.625 points, and Taryn Zellman came in fifth place with 7.550 points.

Floor

The girls hit the floor running as they earned the top three places with their floor routines. Greeley came in first place with 9.125 points, Kaczmarek came in second place with 8.75 points and Peirce came in third with 8.375.

Hahn has seen big improvements in the girls' routines, and they're working on incorporating more difficult skills to up their points in future meets

GSL girls' hoops splits games

Glencoe-Silver Lake girls' basketball had a slow start in its away games last week but upped its playing in the end.

Rebounding played a big role in both games, according to Head Coach Jeff Monahan.

New London-Spicer 70, Panthers 51

The Panthers started its journey against the Wildcats at New London-Spicer last Tuesday, Feb. 2.

GSL started out slow with ending the first half 42-25 in NLS's favor. A timeout towards the beginning helped give the girls more energy though and stopped the point difference from being greater.

"I thought we did a nice job out of the timeout and we played with more confidence," Monahan said.

The Panthers had another slow start with the beginning of the second half though and fell down 28 points with about 14 minutes to go. Monahan said they picked up the pressure and thought the team played very well for the next six to eight minutes. GSL cut the lead to 12 points with about five minutes to go.

"NLS is rated number one in state, and they have a very nice team," Monahan said. "I thought we had our moments rebounding, and then other times we didn't rebound too well. But, I think we can give NLS some credit for the rebounding issue."

Panthers 77, Howard Lake-Waverly-Winsted 40

The Panthers weren't mess-ing around against Howard Lake-Waverly-Winsted though at its away game last Friday, Feb. 5.

They had a nice start with a 14-point lead in the first half even after struggling with some rebounds. GSL went into the second stretch of the game 39-25 over the Lakers.

"After half, I really liked our energy and we were able to stretch the lead," Monahan said.

They ended the night with a solid win of 77-40.

Emma Malz was a standout player for Monahan, and the team is looking to her to continue helping them with rebounding. Brooklyn Christianson and Audrey Petersen also brought a lot of energy last week off the bench.

"I think both freshman are getting more comfortable out there at the varsity level and we will be looking for that energy and hard work this week as well," Monahan said about Christianson and Petersen.

Monahan said the team's this week's games against Annandale and Dassel-Cokato should be really good and they're ready to work hard at both.

Scores from GSL's Tuesday night game vs. Annandale weren't available to The Chronicle at the time of publication.

The Panthers' overall record is 5-2 and their conference record is 3-1.

GSL wins a pair in different ways

GSL battles back, tops NLS in OT

A pair of well-earned victories came in oh-so-different ways last week as the Glencoe-Silver Lake boys' basketball team is tuning up its game.

The Panthers battled back and defeated New London-Spicer in overtime Tuesday, Feb. 2, and then cruised to an easy win over Howard Lake-Waverly-Winsted.

Monday, Feb. 8, the Panthers dropped a tough 81-73 loss at Blue Earth Area. Details of the game beyond the final score were not available when The Chronicle went to press.

Panthers 76, New London-Spicer 72

The Panthers trailed 47-42 with 11:15 left in the game against a team that was playing them tough at both ends of the floor, taking advantage of breakdowns in GSL's defense. NLS took a 37-28 lead to halftime.

Forward Mitchel Jaskowiak bullied his way through the defense and guard Mitchel Klockmann also attacked the rim as the Panthers finally took the lead, 49-48, with 10:17 left in the game.

After trading hoops, the Panthers had a chance to ice with 6.5 seconds remaining and the score tied at 66 but couldn't hit their free throws.

In the overtime, GSL outscored the Wildcats, 10-6, attacking the basket on offense and tightening up the defense. The Panthers hit six of eight free throws and got big hoops from Jaskowiak and Klockmann.

Jaskowiak led GSL with 34 points, 15 in the second half. Klockmann had 19 points, 13 in the second half. Jacob Christianson added nine points. Eli Ehrke had seven points and Spencer Lemke four. Jaden Uecker chipped in three points.

Panthers 81, HLWW 47

The Panthers cruised to an easy win Friday, Feb. 5, putting the game away in the second half.

They took a 34-27 lead to intermission and blew the game open with a 47-27 outburst in the second half.

The Panthers enjoyed more balanced scoring against HLWW. Five players scored in double figures. Blake Mickolichek paced the Panthers with 17 points. He drained three three-pointers. Jaskowiak scored a dozen points and Christianson added 11. Uecker and Sawyer Kaczmarek each scored 10 points in the win. Klockmann scored eight points and Porter Mikolichek finished with four points. Jackson Stifter finished with three points. Corey Schmidt, Lemke and Jordan Mickolichek all finished with two points in the team win.

GSL/LP wrestlers earn a pair of splits in home matches

Solid efforts save win over EP Eagles

With a handful of wrestlers out or nursing injuries, the Glencoe-Silver Lake/Lester Prairie wrestling team has set its focus on making sure wrestlers are in top shape in time for post-season competition.

The Panthers have more wrestlers out than coach Lance Wurm wanted to discuss. Among them are Carter Ruschmeier and Riley Butcher, two competitors the team missed in the setback to St. Peter. With the potential of facing St. Peter later this season, the coach will want a full roster of wrestlers ready to help the team.

"We're in no hurry to get those guys back until they are healthy and ready to go," he said.

The Panthers earned a pair of splits in three-team matches during the past week. Tuesday, Feb. 2, GSL/LP defeated Central (NYA) but fell to St. Peter. Friday, Feb. 5, the Panthers fell to Albert Lea but rebounded with a solid win over Eden Prairie.

Tuesday, Feb. 9, GSL/LP hosted Hutchinson and New Century Academy. Details of the match were not available when The Chronicle went to press. Tomorrow, Thursday, Feb. 11, 5 p.m., the Panthers are slated to host Dassel-Cokato/Litchfield and Min-three by forfeit over the Raiders.

Although the Raiders won the opening match, GSL/LP stormed back and took control of the competition early.

GSL/LP's Dylan Bargmann won at 113 pounds, Kyle Hagen pinned his opponent at 120, and Dawson Meyer won by a fall at 126 to give the Panthers a 15-6 advantage.

GSL/LP forfeited the 132- and 138-pound matches. The Panthers were back on a roll at 145 when Cacka won by default. Voelz won by forfeit at 152 pound, as did Joey Barrett at 160 and Aaron Higgins at 170 pounds. Lemke won his 182-pound match by a pin.

Voelz pinned his opponent at the 2:53 mark of the 160-pound match and GSL/LP's 170-pounder Lemke won a his 195-pound opponent, giving the Panthers a 48-18 lead.

The two teams double-forfeited the 285-pound match.

Albert Lea 44, Panthers 26

Albert Lea jumped to a big lead in the Feb. 5 match, winning the first five matches coupled with a pair of GSL/LP forfeits to build a 35-0 lead.

But the Panthers battled back and outscored Albert Lea 26-9 the rest of the way. Cacka put the Panthers on the scoreboard with a win at 152 pounds.

Voelz pinned his opponent at the 2:53 mark of the 160-pound match and GSL/LP's 170-pounder Lemke won a major decision.

After Blue Earth won the 182- and 195-pound matches, the Panthers' Ziegler and Marco Iracheta finished off the match with pins in the 220- and 285-pound matches.

Panthers 33, Eden Prairie 32

GSL/LP won the match Feb. 5 thanks to wrestlers who saved team points with solid efforts, avoiding big losses and earning extra points with impressive victories, Wurm said.

After the teams traded forfeits in the first two matches, the Panthers' Hagen gave his team a 12-6 lead with a pin at 120 pounds. After a loss at 126 pounds and double forfeits at 132 and 138 pounds, the Eagles took an 18-12 lead with a win at 145.

Voelz rallied the Panthers, winning the 152-pound match to cut Eden Prairie's lead to 18-15. The Eagles won at 160 pounds and Lemke won the 170-pound match with a pin, pulling his team to within two points, 23-21.

"Love is in the air!"

Valentine's Day will soon be here. Have you ever wondered how the tradition of giving Valentines got started? Who was Valentine, anyway?

Valentine was a physician and priest who lived in Rome during the middle of the third century AD. He would also become one of the most well-known martyrs of the third century. The commemoration of his death, which occurred in AD 270, became part of the calendar of remembrance in the Early Church. Tradition suggests that on the day of execution for his Christian faith, Valentine left a note of encouragement for a child of his jailer written on an irregularly shaped piece of paper. This greeting became a pattern for millions of written expressions of love and caring that now are the highlight of Valentine's Day in many nations.

This month as we share notes of love with family members, friends, spouses, and other people who are special to us, it is worth noting not only how this tradition began but more importantly to remember the One for whom St. Valentine was willing to lay down his life, the Lord Jesus Christ. Jesus once said, "Greater love has no one than this, that someone lay down his life for his friends" (John 15:13). Valentine died in a very admirable way. He died for his faith in his Savior and his Friend, Jesus. How much more should we not only admire, but worship and rejoice in our Lord Jesus, who lovingly laid down His life for us. His friends to take the punishment for our sins and Who rose again so that we too may have eternal life.

In addition, we share His love with all others: "Beloved, if God so loved us, we also ought to love one another" (1 John 4:11). What does this type of love look like? St. Paul tells us: "Love is patient and kind; love does not envy or boast; it is not arrogant or rude. It does not insist on its own way; it is not irritable or resentful; it does not rejoice at wrongdoing, but rejoices with the truth. Love bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things. Love never ends." (1 Corinthians 13:4-8a)

Have a happy and blessed Valentine's Day!
